

Case Study

Sector: Logistics
Client Requirement: IT Project Manager
Basis: 1 x Permanent Role

The Situation

The client is an international provider of integrated logistics services . Due to ongoing expansion they wanted to recruit an experienced IT Project Manager to join the team. Their ideal candidate was someone who had experience of software rollout within a logistics / supply chain environment and ideally on a European scale.

This was a specialist requirement and they had not had any success with the generic recruitment agencies they had used previously.

The Wellingtone Process

Understand > Source > Assess > Introduce

The initial step was to understand the exact requirements to ensure we only sent candidates that we were confident the client would want to interview. So we discussed in -depth the responsibilities of the role and the attributes required by the successful candidate should possess.

The discussion allowed us to proceed with a clear understanding through which we were able to source / shortlist candidates from within our own internal database and create targeted adverts to be placed at:

- Wellingtone.co.uk: which has a traffic ranking in the top 7.72% of all websites (Alexa) and receives generally high search engine ranking
- Partner sites: jobs displayed on wellingtone.co.uk are automatically listed on a network of other prominent Project Management websites
- External Job Boards: we have full access to the UK's leading job boards

The shortlisted candidates completed a two step assessment process. This consisted of a high level evaluation against the role requirements and then a detailed technical interview with one of the Senior level Wellingtone Project Management Consultants. This enabled us to assess the candidates' project management competencies against the role requirements. The results were used to create the final candidate shortlist for submission.

The Outcome

We introduced 2 high calibre candidates to the client and 1 was invited for interview and successfully placed on a permanent basis.

The successful candidate had all of the required skills and experience and had a track record in similar projects and extensive experience of supply chain software.
